ADVENTURE CAPITAL

A sound investment in inspiration, motivation and team spirit

TEAM BUILDING & BRAINSTORMING

Team synergy is often enhanced simply by sharing experiences and adventures together. The wilderness offers challenges, like unexpected bad weather, which may demand collaboration in new ways between people who do not traditionally work together.

We provide formalized workshops custom designed to achieve your specific company goals. There may be challenging and significant business issues where a fresh perspective will help new groups bond together and integrate after a merger. A new environment is also a way to encourage creativity and inspiration.

Moderated discussions during the expedition help focus attention and brainstorming on key business topics. Working and living in an informal environment, combined with fun and exciting activities, encourage participants to think far outside the box.

CONFERENCE SPACE

Large meeting tents equipped with screens, projectors, white boards and extended tables are available upon request. Whether discussing topics over meals or scheduling time to brief employees on new products or initiatives, we ensure comfortable indoor space to work efficiently. Hotels in some aboriginal communities may also offer large conference facilities at the start or end of the trip.

LUXURY ACCOMMODATIONS

We have catered to both celebrities and executives who appreciate comfortable accommodations at the end of the day. We have arranged for large private sleeping tents; gourmet meals prepared by professional chefs; and running water, showers, and toilets in the most remote areas. We are capable of providing the highest level of comfort using large, heated, industrial-strength shelters and custom designed equipment.

TRANSPORTATION

Whether traveling over land by four-wheel drive, amphibious vehicles or crossing water in large cruisers, we select the best means of transport to maximize fun, safety and adventure. Helicopters provide ample opportunity to spot animals and using heated personnel carriers on tracks are just a few of the unique possibilities. Large groups may also fly by private plane or Twin Otter.

WILDLIFE

From whales to polar bears in the arctic, from moose to muskox on land and seals to turtles in the sea, the natural environment is teeming with wildlife. Corporate camps may be located for ease and convenience of access to make the most out of a limited time period. Whatever the case and whenever logistically possible, we always select areas which offer unique wildlife opportunities.

SPORTS

Expeditions are organized by combining activities for many different skill levels so that people of all abilities and experiences can participate fully at their own pace. The exact offering of activities will depend upon the expedition location, business goals, group size, season, duration and group interests.

CULTURAL

Visiting almost any Canadian region is to be immersed in the culture of the indigenous groups who have survived and flourished there for thousands of years. There are many opportunities to integrate and learn more about these ingenious people. Browse the sculptures, paintings and embroidery of local artists or learn about traditional clothing and the relationship between animals and the people in the region. Sit back and soak up the song of talented Inuit throat singers and drum dancers of the Arctic or Newfoundland. Take an active approach and sleep in a teepee built by the Ojibways of the Great Lakes or paddle around the Queen Charlotte Islands in a Haida canoe.

TECHNOLOGY

One of the best reasons to bring a corporate group to the wilderness is the ability to remove the constant distractions and demands of real-time communications. When bringing top performers and executives together for any extended length of time, we also appreciate that there are invariably some requirements to stay in touch monitoring critical business and being accessible if necessary. We can provide gateways from satellite phones for voice communications to a high speed satellite data link all the way to setting up a wireless internet hot zone (wifi) around the entire camp.

START TO FINISH EXPEDITION SUPPORT

From the world's warmest clothing to the most effective sunscreen, Arctic Kingdom looks after every detail from top to bottom. This includes organizing flights, booking hotels in transit, organizing time in aboriginal communities and providing all camp logistics. We supply the most sophisticated camps customized to meet seasonal conditions and company project goals; and operate at the highest level of safety through a combination of experienced field teams, advanced electronics and the most knowledgeable guides from the region.

EXPEDITION ADVISORY

Every expedition is different and requires a customized plan. Arctic Kingdom works with each company to determine the best location, itinerary, agenda and dates to provide an interesting and varied adventure while meeting business goals and optimizing available budget and time.
